Chaney Urges Grilling Safety for Fourth of July

JACKSON- People firing up the grill to celebrate the Fourth of July need to be aware of the added fire risk as extreme drought conditions continues throughout the state. More lives and property are threatened by fire on the Fourth than any other day of the year. Commissioner of Insurance and State Fire Marshal Mike Chaney cautions all Mississippians to practice grilling safety this Fourth of July.

“Everyone should take extra fire safety precautions as they celebrate the holiday. The combination of drought and lack of grilling safety is a recipe for disaster,” Chaney said. Numbers from the State Fire Coordinator’s office indicate that there were 9 fires caused by grills, hibachis or barbeques in 2011.

“The most dangerous time around a grill is when you’re lighting it. It takes just one errant spark to create disastrous results. Take extra care with your grill this year; celebrate the Fourth with your family, not in the emergency room.”

Between 2005-2009, fire departments across the country responded to an average 8,200 home fires involving grills, hibachis or barbeques per year. These fires caused an average of 15 deaths and $75 million in direct property damage. And the peak month for grilling fires is July.

The National Fire Protection Association reports that five of every six grills involved in home fires (84%) were fueled by gas while 13% used charcoal or other solid fuel.

Injuries involving grills sent 17,700 patients to emergency rooms in 2009. The National Fire Protection Association also states that roughly one-half (1/2) of reported gas grill injuries were thermal burns incurred while lighting the grill. Gasoline or lighter fluid was a factor in roughly one-quarter (1/4) of reported charcoal or wood burning grill burns. More than one-quarter (29%) of the home structure fires involving grills started on a courtyard, terrace, or patio.

To help keep your family safe this Fourth of July, the Mississippi State Fire Marshal's Office, recommends these grilling safety tips:

- Propane and charcoal BBQ grills should only be used outdoors.
- The grill should be placed well away from the home, deck railings and out from under eaves and overhanging branches.
- Keep children and pets away from the grill area.
- Keep your grill clean by removing grease or fat buildup from the grills and in trays below the grill.
- Never leave your grill unattended.

Charcoal grills

- There are several ways to get the charcoal ready to use. Charcoal chimney starters allow you to start the charcoal using newspaper as a fuel.
- If you use a starter fluid, use only charcoal starter fluid. Never add charcoal fluid or any other flammable liquids to the fire.
- Keep charcoal fluid out of the reach of children and away from heat sources.
- There are also electric charcoal starters, which do not use fire. Be sure to use an extension cord for outdoor use.
- When you are finished grilling, let the coals completely cool before disposing in a metal container.

Propane grills

- Check the gas tank hose for leaks before using it for the first time each year.
- Apply a light soap and water solution to the hose. A propane leak will release bubbles. If your grill has a gas leak, and there is no flame, turn off the gas tank and grill.
- If the leak stops, get the grill serviced by a professional before using it again. If the leak does not stop, call the fire department.
- If you smell gas while cooking, immediately get away from the grill and call the fire department. Do not move the grill.
